Use the long strips for voltage and ground connections.

Use these strips to connect to pins on your chips.

Both sides of the board are the same.

The rectangles indicate which holes are connected.