

Both sides of the board are the same

Use the long strips for voltage and ground connections

Use these strips to connect to pins on your chips

The rectangles indicate which holes are connected